

A No-Border Imagination

Flipping pages, I skip across continents & universes. From Green Gables farm on Prince Edward's Island to the history of Puerto Rico's resistance against colonial rule, I travel learning about Anne Shirley's orphan plight & the torture of revolutionary Pedro Albizu Campos. Flipping pages, I discover what lies beyond the four walls of my room. No passport, no TSA security checks or cramped leg room on an airplane seat. Words & imagination are the only tickets I need. Flipping pages, I flip border walls, dance in their rubble, reminding you reader, nations are just as imagined as Anne Rice's Lestat & platform 9 3/4 where you can catch the train to Hogwarts.
